McMillan Named To Small Craft Harbor Commission

Lester A. McMillan, former Assemblyman and a resident of Marina del Rey, has been appointed to the L.A. County Small Craft Harbor Commission, according to a recent announcement by L.A. County Supervisor Ernest E. Debs. Mr. McMillan will succeed Commissioner Sidney B. Levine, whose term has expired.

Seminars Planned For Beginning Sailors

A series of four programs for new and non-sailors entitled "An Introduction To Sailing" will be held at California YC, beginning at 8 p.m. on the Tuesday evenings of October 22 and 29, and November 5 and 12.

Basic principals and techniques will be covered, and all interested boaters, wives, and friends are invited to attend.

Hosting the seminar series for California YC will be Sailing Education Chairman Bill Rogers.

New Staff Members At Harbor Yacht Sales

Three new staff members, all seasoned boaters, have recently joined the sales force of Art Schneider's Harbor Yacht Sales at Marina del Rey. They are Pat Patton, J. O. Roberts, and Jeff Marsh.

Patton, a member of the U.S. Power Squadron District 13 (Pasadena Chapter) and a 28-year boating veteran has been Rear Commodore, Port Captain, and Fleet Captain of Westwind YC in Wilmington.

Roberts, a resident of Marina del Rey and long time member of Eau Gallie YC of Eau Gallie, Florida, was formerly a Senior Vice President of Salem Electronics and a Regional Director of North American Rockwell, and was also a test pilot for the latter organization.

Marsh, a member of the U.S. Power Squadron and Cerritos Bahia YC, is an active sport fisherman and has for many years designed cruising yachts as a hobby.

Winner of this year's running of California YC's three day California Cup Race on October 9, 10, and 11 was Pat Dougan's "Columbia" (left).

First of the match races on Friday was won by George O'Brien's "Endless Summer" (below), after a late start by "Columbia" due to a faulty winch. On Saturday, the second day, "Columbia" finished ahead by five minutes and 48 seconds; and on the third day, by four minutes and 3 seconds — for two out of three and the series.

Helmsman on "Endless Summer" was Burke Sawyers. At helm of "Columbia" was Bill Ficker, who also recently helmed the winning "Intrepid" in the America's Cup Series.

CAL-40 GABERLUNZIE

The fabulous Cal-40 is the winningest ocean racer ever designed, having been over-all winner of 3 Transpacific Races (including the last one), 3 Overton Series (including 1970), the Whitney Series (including 1970), the Bermuda Race, the SORC, the Annapolis to Newport Race and countless other major events. The Cal-40 has also been selected, again this year, as the official yacht for Congressional Cup match racing among America's top sailors. A ruggedly-built, safe ocean racer. An exciting, high performance round-the-buoys racer (with many class racing events sponsored by an active class association). Luxurious accommodations for eight on long distance races or extended cruises. A docile family boat easily handled by two people.

Gaberlunzie is the prettiest Cal-40 afloat, has been maintained in immaculate condition, and is completely equipped for offshore racing, round-the-buoys racing and cruising.

$34,000 sacrifice. Owner will consider 100% financing. Michael Miller, phone 213-394-8073.

KB Management Company's recently begun $30 million Marina Airport Plaza (above) will include three high-rise office buildings, and will occupy a square block bounded by Admiralty Way, Mindanao Way, and Lincoln Blvd. To be included in this complex when finished are a 2,000 car garage, a theater, a health club, and a commercial center containing 26 shops.

Four major new projects are now under construction at Marina del Rey. Completion of promenade apartment building at Marina City (left) is scheduled for April of next year, with occupancy of first units slated for next month, and completion of all 671 apartment units in project for late '72. Meanwhile, Marina City's 17-story high rise tower will be finished by July of next year, and a pair of restaurants (below) called "The Second Story" and "The Basement" will start operating here by about mid-November.

Rental office at the Ring Brothers Mariners Village project (left and above) will open this month, with completion of the first phase of a 981 apartment complex scheduled for the end of this year.

Pacific Harbor Apartments, Ponty-Fenmore's latest development here, contains 606 apartments in seven buildings, and is now about 90% completed. Headquarters for the Ponty-Fenmore firm — which accounts for about $30 million in Marina del Rey development and which now has about 1,000 boat slips — was recently moved into third story added to new project's clubhouse (above).

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

ABOUT YOUR ELECTRONICS

By
KEN ENGLERT

Service Manager, Maritime
Communications, Inc.

Ken Englert, who will henceforth answer questions from "Dinghy" readers about marine electronics gear is well qualified for this task.

Presently employed as Service Manager at a large marine electronics sales and service center, he was formerly a member of the Marine Electronics Division at Bendix Corporation. He holds an F.C.C. First Class Radiotelephone License with Marine Radar Endorsement, is an active member of the Southern California Marine Radio Council, and is a Certified Engineering Technician.

A graduate of National Technical Schools, of Capitol Radio Engineering Institute, and of Motorola Training Institute, he has also served six years with the California Air National Guard in FM ground radio multiplex relay equipment maintenance.

With this issue we are launching a new column for the boat owner which we hope will assist him in solving some of the problems he may encounter with regard to his shipboard electronics. Questions are invited by the boating public to be answered in this column. Please send your questions c/o this column to: Maritime Communications, 766 Washington St., Venice, Ca. 90291.

The question asked most frequently these days is, "Now that radio checks are forbidden on 2182 KC, how do I know my radio is working?"

First of all, many boat owners are not aware that the Telephone Company has a Technician on duty twenty-four hours a day to assist you in checking out the transmission quality of your radio. Merely call the Marine Operator and ask to speak with the KOU Technician. He will be able to tell you at what signal strength you are being received by the KOU receiver sites located at Point Loma, San Pedro, Avalon and Ventura.

I should point out that, in the Marina Del Rey area, most vessels will not be able to make a solid contact with KOU until they are three to five miles west of the mainland, due to the location of the receiver sites.

Inter-ship channels 2638 KC, 2738 KC and 2142 KC should be used for radio checks with other vessels. However, the law requires that you must call a vessel by its name or call sign.

The procedure of "calling any vessel for a radio check" is prohibited and can result in a citation from the Federal Communications Commission.

It is possible to verify the proper operation of your AM Radiotelephone without the aid of another radio. There are three things you must check to insure your radio is operational:

- (1) When the transmitter is keyed (button depressed on microphone) the transmitter indicating light should come on for every channel. (This proves the

- antenna is emitting power).
- (2) When you whistle or speak into the microphone, the light should get noticeably brighter. (This indicates the radio is modulating).
- (3) The receiver can be checked by simply hearing someone on every channel.

To check the receiver when no one is on the air, disconnect the antenna lead momentarily. The noise level should decrease. This indicates the channel is receiving normally.

If the noise level remains the same, the receiver would be inoperative on that particular channel.
